Town Schools.

After a very interesting and profitable term of ten weeks, the town schools closed last Friday. Day in and day out the children have trudged most faithfully to their work, through much rain it is true, but not enough to dampen their ardor and the new interests that the earnest and faithful teachers have each day labored to present to the little ones given to their keeping. Right royally too, have they performed the duties that have devolved upon them and teachers and pupils have earned the vacation that we trust will be pleasant to each and every one.

In the lower rooms the schools closed at noon in order that the teachers might attend the graduation exercises held in Miss Gibson's room where nine of her pupils were to take part in the exercises and bid adieu to school life at the "Brick." Two o'clock was the hour appointed and at that time the seating capacity of the room had been taken. Extra seats were brought and quickly filled; at the beginning of the exercises hardly standing room was to be found, while many of the seats designed for one had two occupants. The teacher and pupils were pleased and enthused at the interest thus shown by parents and friends, and when the visitors went home it was with a feeling that much good work had been accomplished during the term.

The busy fingers of the pupils had worked swiftly the day before and guided by the teacher, had beautified the school room and very artistic were their efforts. On the wall in the rear of the platform were draperies of lavender and light green, the class colors; the class motto "Onward" just below festoons of draperies, greeted the eye, while 1902 was prettily arranged beneath the motto. The back of the platform was banked with evergreens and daisies making a pretty background indeed for the seven little maidens and two manly boys who, for the last time as pupils of the Grammar school greeted their friends. The piano too came in for its share of decoration and held many of the spring flowers, evergreens and ferns.

The order of exercises was carefully arranged: the Lord's prayer by the school was followed by quotations by the pupils, each most appropriately selected, and the school songs with piano accompaniment by Mildred Hapgood, brought the feelings of all in sympathy with those of the pupils who were saying Goodby to schoolmates and teachers; but after all one could but be surprised at the clear, forceful manner in which the boys and girls had expressed their thoughts and feelings.

Tender, sympathetic, bright, witty, were the parts, and would have done credit and much credit too, to children of a larger growth. That ever part was well written and delivered may truthfully be said of each one. At the close of the program Miss Susie Twitchell, a member of the school board, in most pleasing words of advice presented the diplomas.

"In token of the love and esteem of the class of 1902," Vivian Dingley presented the teacher, Miss Gibson, a gift, trusting that it would be a pleasant reminder of each one of the class. Then the class gathered about the piano and for the last time united their voices in song thus closing their work at "The Old Brick."

In the evening the graduates and a few invited friends held a social at W. R. C. hall; the thoughtfulness and kindness of Miss Gibson and her assistants at the village school, made this a most pleasant evening.

The following pupils were not absent for the term:

Fannie Barker.
Philip Chapman.
George Spinney.
Gard Twaddle.

Violet Barchard.

The B's of B. Evening.

Last Thursday, evening about thirty-five couples responded to the invitation of the B's of B, and attended the reception and dance in Odeon Hall.

Mrs. Elmer H. Young and Mrs. Ellery C. Park received the guests in a very charming manner, which assisted much in making the evening a success.

The hall decorations were simple, the costumes, as a whole, not elaborate, yet everyone had "such a grand good time."

Music was furnished by Mr. Stearns of Norway and Miss King of Bethel, who was assisted by Miss Elsie Hall in a very pleasing manner. The order of twelve well-selected numbers was wisely arranged and a source of delight to even those who sometimes so far forget their obligations as to criticize the program which they are invited to enjoy.

The committee should feel proud of this latest effort of the B's of B, as they surely scored as comparatively great a success as has hitherto crowned their efforts as entertainers.

Columbian Club's Special Meeting.

Although the season of the Columbian Club practically closes in May, there are often special meetings during the summer not down on the Club calendar. One of these occurred on June 17, when the members met in the Grammar school building and presented to the school a beautiful picture of the Grand Canal in Venice as the year's gift from the Columbian Club.

The very pretty presentation speech was made by Mrs. G. F. Bartlett, the new president, and was followed by a most interesting talk on Venice by the ex-president, Mrs. J. G. Gehring, who closed her remarks as befitting the day, with a beautiful tribute to our flag and the country for which it stands. The quiet orderly behavior of the pupils and their close attention to the remarks, spake volumes for both teachers and pupils of our village schools. Miss Gibson thanked the Club most cordially for the gift, also for the interest manifested in the schools.

The columns of the News have already told the story of the last great enterprise of this Club; namely, the improvement of the Common. Special meetings have been called through June in reference to this work which is progressing as rapidly as possible. Committees have been chosen, plans are being formulated and we hope soon to be able to report through the News just what has been accomplished in this direction.

WOMEN'S WOES.

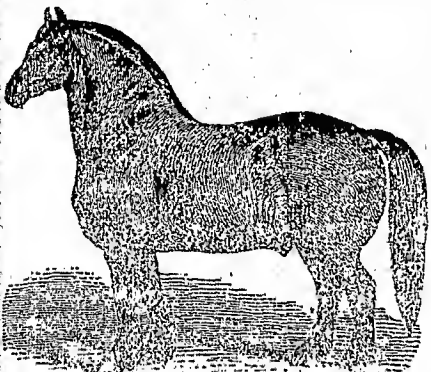

Hard for any woman to do housework—to attend to daily duties with a constantly aching back. Every woman should learn the cause of backache and the cure.

Doan's Kidney Pills

relieve a bad back and cure it—cure every kidney and bladder disorder, from backache to diabetes.

Mrs. C. F. Goodnow, living at 143 Washington street, New Britain, Conn., says: "I gave a testimonial in December, 1899, touching the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and in the statement said that I had been bothered with my back and kidneys for over thirteen years, not constantly, but when I caught cold it generally settled in my back, making it lame and sore. Often the pain through the small of my back was so severe as to make me cry out. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and procured some from E. W. Thompson & Co.'s drug store, on Main street. They helped my back immediately, and in a short time relieved me of the trouble. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills at intervals during the last five years, when I felt an attack of backache coming on, and they always brought instant relief. I am never without them in the house."

THE HOME.

"To-morrow hath a rare, alluring sound; To-day is very prosy; and yet the twain Are but one vision seen through attend eyes. Our dreams inhabit one; our stress and pain Surge through the other. Heaven is but to-day Made lovely with to-morrow's face for aye."

The Unexpected Guest.

My ideas upon the subject of catering to the unexpected guest—or to the expected one, for that matter—may seem eccentric and inhospitable, but I have found them practicable, and as we have a great deal of company it would seem that there is no cause for complaint on the part of our visitors. In the first place I take the stand that my friends come to see me, and not primarily to eat my cooking. Then, too, I think that it is a woman's duty to feed her family as well as she would a guest who is inconsiderate enough to come unexpectedly.

I will not deny that I try to do a little more and have things a little nicer when there is company. But I will not go beyond my strength or beyond my means for anybody. It is not honest, and I would not like others to do it for me. Let each one think how it would seem if she herself were the unexpected guest. Which would you prefer, to have your hostess fly around in a nervous flutter, killing a chicken and making all sorts of elaborate preparations, and be herself fluttered and red-faced at meal time, and urging upon you viands which you knew were out of the ordinary and even perhaps more expensive than she could afford; or, on the other hand, to have the preparations for dinner go on smoothly and uninterruptedly, and when you sat down to dinner have the feeling that you had not disturbed the domestic machinery in the least, and that the dinner was just the same as it would have been had you stayed away?

The latter is, it seems to me, the ideal way, but there arise occasions—during housecleaning or other large undertakings—when a scanty dinner for the family is a necessity. It is usually at such times that the unexpected guest arrives. For such emergencies canned salmon is my great standby, and I try always to keep it on hand. Then I usually have a jar of delicate cookies, and there is always canned fruit down cellar. These things, with one or two vegetables of the season, and bread, or hot gems if the bread jar is empty, make a dinner good enough for anybody.

I do not take much account of the meat question, for I know that town people care most for fresh vegetables, and so with a good garden to draw upon I can usually get something together that is apparently relished. Then there is milk to use, and eggs can take the place of meat in case of necessity. There is nothing like being independent and unpretentious in one's relations to company.

We have a good many callers on Sunday afternoons during the summer. Sometimes as many as eight or ten drop in. Now it is too much to have to set the table for so many, especially on the day of rest. So when it is pleasant we sit out of doors, and when it is time for lunch I bring out a tray on which is a large plate heaped with bread and butter sandwiches, another of sponge cake—I never dare risk not having a sponge cake on Sunday in summer—with glasses and a big pitcher of cold milk. If everything is the best of its kind, no fault need be found with a lunch as simple as this. If one tries to make a display, or tries to give one's guests better than can be afforded, company will be a serious tax on one's means. But if company is treated like one of the family, then the expense will not be so great, and those who come for the sake of eating and nothing more, will soon get discouraged.—Rural New Yorker.

Don't Delay.

It is "Putting Off" Till Some Other Day that Causes so Many Sudden Deaths.

Be sure you need a medicine before you take it, but having once found out that you need it, lose no time in getting the best. If it's for the kidneys, liver, bladder or blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia, chronic constipation, or the weaknesses peculiar to women, the best is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and a very simple way to find out if you need it, is to put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment or a milky, cloudy appearance; if it is ropy or stringy, pale or discolored, you do not need a physician to tell you that your kidneys and bladder are badly affected.

The Rev. Theodore Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Greensburg, Ky., writes us the following:

"It gives me much pleasure to state that I have received great benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Some time ago I had a severe attack of kidney trouble, but a few bottles of 'Favorite Remedy' have entirely removed the malady."

"Favorite Remedy" speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, burning scalding pain in passing water, the staining of linen by your urine and all the unpleasant and dangerous effects produced on the system by the use of whiskey and beer.

All druggists sell Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles.

COOKING HELPS.

Minced ham with macaroni is a palatable warmed over dish. Boil the macaroni in salted water in the usual way, and blanch it by pouring cold water on, and as quickly pouring it off. Then put it in a shallow baking dish and sprinkle it with one cup of finely minced cooked ham seasoned with made mustard, and cover with white sauce, to which one raw egg has been added. Pour over this two-thirds of a cupful of fine cracker crumbs, moistened in melted butter. Set in the oven only long enough to brown the crumbs. In re-making dishes very much depends on the seasoning and on the slightest re-heating possible, as the meat, fish or fowl have already been cooked.

Although it is rather the custom to make fun of hash yet it is quite one of the most relishable dishes we have when properly made. Try this recipe and see if you will ever again sniff up your nose at hash. Slice a couple of onions and brown them well in a lump of butter on a frying pan. Chop some corned beef with potatoes and moisten with a teacupful of brown sauce, season with pepper and a dash of nutmeg. Put the mixture on the frying pan and brown. Serve with poached eggs laid on top.

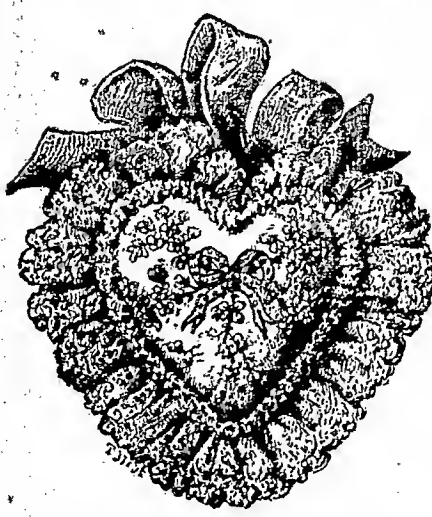

Another hash of left-over mutton that is tempting is made like this. Chop an onion and fry it in a good bit of butter until it is brown. Then put into the butter two cupfuls of diced cold mutton, diced not chopped, and one cupful of diced cold boiled potatoes, pepper and salt. After that put in four tablespoonfuls of tomato sauce, and have some chopped parsley for sprinkling over the dish when served. If you have rice muffins with a little nutmeg grated in, you will have a delicious and economical little luncheon as your saving heart and limited pocket book desire.

A savory way to heat up cold fish is to flake it, and marinate it for three or four hours in a tablespoonful each of oil and vinegar, a dash of cayenne, a piece of an onion and salt. Have ready three teaspoonfuls of rich tomato sauce and butter, in the sauce pan, putting the butter in first. Then lay the fish in and stir it about till quite hot.

A PRETTY PINCUSHION.

This Dainty Affair Is Made of Silk, Ribbon and Lace.

This dainty and artistic heart shaped pin cushion which properly made would ornament the finest of dressing tables is in ribbon embroidery on a delicate shade of green silk. The silk is embroidered with forgetmenots in china ribbon in pale shades of blue, with pink for the unopened buds, as is seen in the real flower. On choosing the correct shade of ribbons the success of the work greatly depends. A knot stitch is worked with yellow silk in the center of each flower. The stalks are in cording stitch worked with embroidery silk. The bow which ties the stalks is worked in gold colored silk, with a line of tiny gold sequins between the lines of cording stitch. When the work is finished, strain it by pinning it out right side up over a damp cloth. For the back cut a second piece of silk the same size as that on which the embroidery is worked, turn in the edges and sew together, leaving about two inches unsewn through which to pass the bran or sawdust for stuffing. It should be stuffed tightly, then after the opening is sewed up it should be pressed between the hands to flatten it a little. Trim the edge with a full frill of lace, which is headed by a ruche of frayed out silk about three-quarters of an inch in width. Loops of ribbon finish the top.

The Good Night Brigade.

It is sometimes the most difficult task of the day for a mother to get her little ones safely to bed without undue remonstrance. A happy thought came to the mother of five small children, says a contributor to Good Housekeeping, when she said one night, "We will march to bed as the soldiers do when on parade." The children were soon in their nightgowns, and with mamma ahead as captain, a light in her hand, the brigade formed into line. When mamma counted "one," five little feet went pat on the stair. As she counted "two," ten little feet were on the stair. Thus they marched cheerfully to bed every night until they learned to keep step like soldiers. Then mamma said, "Now that you can keep step so nicely by counting, we will march tonight singing:

"Softly now the light of day
Fades upon my sight away,
Free from care, from labor free,
Lord, I would commune with thee."

A Protection For Open Bookcases.
Persons blessed with a large number of books find it difficult to care for them in rented houses and places where no permanent shelves may be set up and glass inclosed. Such will find the little strip of pinked out leather or enamel cloth attached by brass nails to each shelf a great protection. Though narrow, it acts as a dust gatherer and is really a most efficient bar in the way of preventing dust from filtering through to the back of the books. Many book lovers dislike to put their favorites behind glass, feeling that they are shut away from quick contact, and such may considerably rely upon this tiny fringe, especially if the bookshelves are backed, as all should be.

Cleaning Fine Lace.

The surest and quickest way to clean fine lace is to spread it on a clean cloth sewed about a board, arrange every point carefully and baste them to the cloth. Then go over the lace carefully with a clean linen rag dipped in hot borax water until all soil is removed, then use clean water to rinse away all trace of the borax. Sometimes a little thin starch is added to the last rinse water, but that is a matter of personal taste. Put the board and lace in the sun to dry, cut away the stitches, remove the lace, fold it in blue paper and lay it away until needed.

"Crazy" Wall Papering.

Somewhat akin to the "crazy" soft pillow fad of a few years ago is the fancy for papering rooms in samples or remnants of wall paper of various patterns and colorings. The scheme in the hands of a conservative person might not be bad, but for the most part it is the sort of thing that would give one the nightmare, especially if he had to sleep in such a harlequin room.

A Homemade Fire Extinguisher.
Do you know that you can make your own hand grenades to be used in case of fire by filling old quart bottles with the following: Chloride of lime, crude, twenty parts; common salt, five parts; water, seventy-five parts? Those who have convenient hand pumps may keep this solution handy and throw it with the pump.

Pillow Ticks.

The brown spotted condition of pillow ticks is really greasy and dirt that work through the slips. Covers made of unbleached muslin put over the ticks proper save pillows a great deal. They can be removed and washed once in two or three months, thus insuring clean, sweet smelling pillows.

A Chance in a Life Time to invest on the ground floor with owners, in a developed free milling gold mine that has produced, and has expended on it, in development on the ledge and a complete live stamp mill with all other necessary machinery ready to run.

Fifty Thousand Dollars

The Ozark is not a prospect, but a mine that has produced. We are placing 100,000 shares of development stock at 25c per share, capital stock 1,000,000 shares (par value $1.00 each), fully paid and non-assessable, to further develop and put the property on a paying basis.

A property lying near the Ozark, with nowhere as good a showing and very little development, sold last week to a New York syndicate for $200,000. The Ozark will pay dividends and be worth par inside of six months. This is the best investment for the money that has ever been offered to the investing public.

Do not lose this opportunity. It will never come again. For further particulars, prospectus, report of mine, references, etc., address

Smith of a suitably inscribed jewel to Past Thrice Illustrious Grand Master Bial F. Bradbury, who accepted the token of friendship from his "Norway Masonic friends" in a most pleasant speech. Visits the Home of Her Fathers.

Last Friday Mrs. David Meeker, daughter of the late Capt. Ralph G. Kendall of New Orleans, who is spending a few weeks with relatives in town, visited the old Kendall homestead at what was for many years known as Kendall's ferry. The old house has been replaced by a modern structure, the ferry-boat has drifted into the past, and the road leading down to the Androscoggin is but an indistinguishable part of the grass-covered interval. Sixty-two years have passed into oblivion since the boy, Ralph, set out to make his fortune, bidding a final farewell to all the associations of his boyhood home, but not until this summer has one of his family visited that home and looked on the grand mountains which stand now, as they stood then, barriers between us and the wide world beyond. Looking on these, visiting the graves of his parents, studying the people of the valley of to-day, imagining what life here must not have held for a young man more than half a century ago, his daughter feels that she understands and sympathizes with the father whom she scarcely remembers, as she had never done before.

Mrs. Meeker, a native of New Orleans, was educated in Iowa, and has traveled extensively in the West and South, visiting Muir Glacier Bay, sixty-five miles above Sitka, Alaska, making a pleasure trip across Texas to El Paso, and including Old Mexico in her journeyings. A residence of several months in St. Paul, Denver, Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., aided by the recent trip to New England has given her a varied and extended view of our own land, which makes her a very interesting woman to meet.

Mr. Meeker, who is bookkeeper and assistant manager of The Lumber Trade Journal, is a native of England, and they are planning a visit to Great Britain next summer.

IOWA BOY

GRAY PERCHERON STALLION, 8 years old, weighs 1300 pounds, and stands 15 hands high.

Animals of this draft breed are surprising travelers for horses of their size. The Percheron has a slightly dishd face, showing great intelligence. The head is of medium length and wide between the eyes. The neck is arched and muscular; the back is short and strong; body round and close ribbed. The hindquarters are broad and strong, the shoulders very muscular. Lower part of legs hairy; hoofs are hard and free from disease. The general height is from fifteen to sixteen hands. The general color is gray and dappled gray.

It is very difficult to draw the line between Norman and Percheron. In the Stud book all animals imported from France are registered as either Normans, Percherons, Percheron-Normans or Norman-Percherons. No matter by what name they are known, it is a well-known fact that they are one of the most valuable breeds ever brought to this country, and their merits should be carefully investigated by anyone interested in breeding.

Breed to a common sense, general-purpose horse. Come and see him. IOWA BOY will stand for service during the season of 1902 at my farm in Hanover, Fridays and Saturdays of each week. Terms $10 to warrant.

KING of the MOWING FIELD and the PRIDE of the FARMER.

Ask the farmers of Bethel and vicinity, who are using the ADRIANCE BUCKEYE, their opinion of it, and upon their report let its fate rest.

Ask them concerning the following features:

1. The AUTOMATIC SPRING DRAFT.
2. Its light weight—or no weight—upon the horses' necks,
3. The FOOT LEVER, with which a boy can handle the cutter bar with ease.

This machine has not only won the medals wherever it has been exhibited, but it has won the admiration of the thousands of farmers who have used it. Come and get one. Take it home and try it, and, if it is not the best all around mower that you have ever used, bring it back.

The ruins of the old buildings will be cleared away and the old dam torn out and a much larger one built. It is also rumored that an immense pulp mill will be built on the site, and that possibly later on the Riverside pulp mill of the Berlin Mills company, which is situated a little farther up the river, will be demolished. The Riverside mill was erected in 1888, and was at that time one of the biggest ground wood pulp mills in the country. The Forest Fibre privilege is a magnificent one, and it is understood that the company intends to utilize it according to the most approved methods.

Letter to E. C. Park.
Bethel, Me.

Dear Sir: Congressman Belden, of Syracuse, painted his Thousand-Island cottage in '92 with Devco; and painted it again in '99, with the same, of course. Takes 80 gallons.

"What! does it last only seven years?"

Depends on what you paint for. No one can tell how long a job of paint is going to last in any particular case. The paint may last ten years and the color five.

A summer cottage is painted for color, of course; it is also painted to keep out water, to keep it from rotting.

Seven years is a good long time for paint to look fresh—depends on the color though; some colors last longer than others. There is too long for some of the prettiest colors. Nothing pays better, in building a house, than a good job of paint; and nothing pays better, in keeping it up, than repainting as soon as the paint shows signs of impairment. But this is to keep it sound. For the looks, you may paint it whenever the freshness is off. It's a matter of color; not of paint.

Yours truly,

WINDPROOF HURDLES.

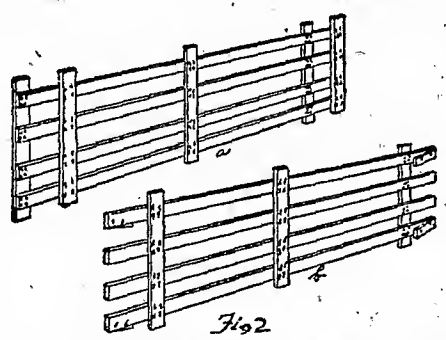

Plans For Removing One Objection to This Kind of Fencing.

One objection which seems to be made to the more general use of hurdles is the liability of their being blown over. A writer in Country Gentleman submits illustrations of hurdles which, he says, offer less resistance or are better fortified against the effects of the wind:

Fig. 1, while not strictly a movable hurdle, is nevertheless considered as such and is the one in most common use hereabout. I can only give measurements from memory, but should say that they were ten feet long and five feet high when set up. The figure shown is made of sawed stuff, but they are more often made of split saplings. The construction, however, is precisely the same. Holes are made with a bar, and they are set end to end and pinned together at the top. These, like those supported on the A crutch, form a perfectly straight fence, which is not so proof against the force of the wind as one built zigzag or worm fashion.

In Fig. 2 I have shown two panels that are intended to be set up in this manner. The left hand end of panel b slips in the right hand end of panel a, and a section of the fence is shown in Fig. 3. These panels are supposed to be ten feet long and four feet high and the lumber 1 by 5 inch stuff, but these dimensions can be varied to suit the idea of the user. With these dimensions, however, the distance between the end uprights on the panel ought to be eleven inches. On panel a the end uprights ought to be fifteen inches from either end. This ought to make the fence worm about four feet. As can be readily understood, more or less worm will be given to the fence by moving the second upright from either end in panel a.

A Hidden Foe.

Often it will be found upon inspection of the strawberry plant that the main roots have been cut off by a large white grub with a yellowish head. Usually they leave enough small roots to keep the plant alive when the ground is moist, so that it is not likely to be noticed. These pests have never appeared upon the surface, like the cut-worm, but do their dastardly work under the ground where it is not seen and at a time when the plants need every root and fiber to insure a good stand of vines for the next season's crop.

A farmer called on me one day and requested me to go with him to see if I could tell what was the matter with his strawberries. I went with him, and one glance at the vines was sufficient for me to understand what was the trouble. Stepping to the side of a plant, I dug around the roots of the plant and pulled out a large white grub. I instructed his twelve-year-old boy, who had accompanied us, how he could locate the grubs by repeating the operation several times, and his father told him he would give him a cent apiece for all the grubs he could find. It cost him over $2. From what vines were left they gathered at the first picking a hundred quarts and sold them for $18.—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

Methods With Radishes.

I have been in the business several seasons. The soil is a great factor and should be a rich, sandy loam, well drained and free from weeds. I have used several kinds of fertilizers with some success, but good stable manure, well rotted, is of most importance. Wood ashes and bone are also highly recommended, and nitrate of soda gives good results if properly applied. I plow in fall and again in spring, working the soil very fine. I drill the seed with a garden drill eight inches apart between the rows and one or two seeds to the inch for turnip rooted varieties, for late or long varieties twelve to sixteen inches between the rows, and thin from two to four inches, according to size. For a succession sow once a week as long as the weather is favorable, which is about July 1 for early varieties. Do not sow such varieties as White China before June 1 or, better still, June 15 and up to Aug. 15 for our latitude, about 43 degrees, says a Canadian correspondent in Orange Judd Farmer.

"Oh would," "Ashamed of you, Billy!" said Craig in a voice that broke. "Not he." "And—ye hall—elped me so!" he went on. "Oh wish O'd 'a' done better—O'do." And his eyes sought Georgie and then rested on Mrs. Mavor, who smiled back at him with a world of love in her eyes. "You hain't hashamed of me—yore heyes saigh so," he said, looking at her.

"No, Billy," she said, and I wondered at her steady voice, "not a bit. Why, Billy, I am proud of you."

He gazed up at her with wonder and ineffable love in his little eyes, then lifted his hand slightly toward her. She knelt quickly and took it in both of hers, stroking it and kissing it.

"O! haught t'a done better. O'm hawful sorry O! went back on 'im. Eli was the lemonade. The boys didn't mean no 'arm, but hit started the 'ell hinside."

Georgie hurried out some bitter words. "Don't be 'ard on 'em, Georgie. They didn't mean no 'arm," he said, and his eyes kept waiting till Georgie said hurriedly:

"Na, na, lad! I'll jult leave them till the Almighty."

Then Mrs. Mavor sang softly, smoothing his hand, "Just as I Am," and Billy dozed quietly for half an hour.

When he awoke again, his eyes turned to Mr. Craig, and they were troubled and anxious.

"O! tried 'ard. O! wanted to win," he struggled to say.

By this time Craig was master of himself, and he answered in a clear, distinct voice:

"Listen, Billy. You made a great fight, and you are going to win yet. And, besides, do you remember the sheep that got lost over the mountains?" This parable was Billy's special delight. "He didn't beat it when he got it, did he? He took it in his arms and carried it home, and so he will you."

And Billy, keeping his eyes fastened on Mr. Craig, simply said:

"Will 'e?"

"Sure!" said Craig.

"Will 'e?" he repeated, turning his eyes upon Mrs. Mavor.

"Why, yes, Billy," she answered cheerily, though the tears were streaming from her eyes. "I would, and he loves you far more."

He looked at her, smiled and closed his eyes. I put my hand on his heart. It was fluttering feebly. Again a troubled look passed over his face.

"My—poor—hold—mother!" he whispered. "She's—hln—the-wukus."

"I shall take care of her, Billy," said Mrs. Mavor in a clear voice, and again Billy smiled. Then he turned his eyes to Mr. Craig and from him to Georgie and at last to Mrs. Mavor, where they rested. She bent over and kissed him twice on the forehead.

"Tell 'er," he said, with difficulty, "e's took me 'ome."

"Yes, Billy!" she cried, gazing into his glazing eyes.

He tried to lift her hand. She kissed him again. He drew one deep breath and lay quite still.

"Thank the blessed Saviour!" said Mr. Craig reverently. "He has taken him home."

But Mrs. Mavor held the dead hand tight and sobbed out passionately:

"Oh, Billy, Billy, you helped me once when I needed help! I cannot forget!"

And Georgie, groaning, "Aye, laddie, laddie!" passed out into the fading light of the early evening.

Next day no one went to work, for to all it seemed a sacred day. They carried him into the little church, and there Mr. Craig spoke of his long, hard fight and of his final victory, for he died without a fear and with love to the men who, not knowing, had been his death. And there was no bitterness in any heart, for Mr. Craig read the story of the sheep and told how gently he had taken Billy home; but, though no word was spoken, it was there the league was made again.

They laid him under the pines beside Lewis Mavor, and the miners threw sprigs of evergreen into the open grave. When Slavin, sobbing bitterly, brought his sprig, no one stopped him, though all thought it strange.

As we turned to leave the grave the light from the evening sun came softly through the gap in the mountains and, filling the valley, touched the trees and the little mound beneath with glory, and I thought of that other glory which is brighter than the sun and was not sorry that poor Billy's weary, fight was over, and I could not help agreeing with Craig that it was there the league had its revenge.

ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain habit, puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes cracks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a wonder expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plaster, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. WON A FORTUNE.

This Grocer Began Small, Advertised Steadily, and Has Just Retired with a Handsome Competence.

Sixteen years ago, according to Profitable Advertising, Mr. R. H. Williams started in the grocery business in Kansas City with a Cash capital of $225—all he possessed in the world. A few weeks ago he sold out and retired with a fortune estimated at from $200,000 to $300,000. When questioned by a newspaper reporter regarding this remarkable success, Williams said:

"I remember very well that my first day's sales amounted to just eight dollars. After I had been in business six months I conceived the idea of selling strictly for cash, and advertising. I inquired the cost of advertising in the Kansas City Star and found it would cost me one day's receipts to pay for a small advertisement for one day. However, I was so positive that advertising was the only way to success that I made the necessary arrangements. It took all the money I could spare from my business but it was only a short time before my business began to grow."

Farther along in the interview Mr. Williams told of moving from one location to another in order to accommodate his rapidly-increasing patronage. He employed from fifty to seventy-five clerks at all times, varying with the seasons of the year. He shipped goods to all parts of the United States and even into Canada. "From the beginning of my first little store until to-day," said Mr. Williams, "my business has grown each year from 10 to 500 per cent. All of my money has been invested here and all of my money has been made here. For the past nine years my advertisement has appeared every day in the Star, Sundays, holidays and all. I have paid from $5,000 to $18,000 each year in that period of advertising."

There is the strongest kind of a moral in this true story that every merchant might well take home to himself. Mr. Williams studied advertising long enough and hard enough to become thoroughly convinced that it was just the sort of help he needed to build up his business. He accordingly inaugurated a most aggressive and progressive campaign, even though it took pretty nearly all his money to keep the plan moving at the start. The result? We have Mr. Williams' own word for it that he has become independently rich in the past sixteen years and all from the profits of his grocery.

Another point—and this, too, is of great importance—is the fact that Mr. Williams employed but one advertising medium in all these years, and that was the best local newspaper. His is but one of countless instances where the merchant who has turned to the advertising space of the local papers for business aid, and has stuck to it, has come through with flying colors—and a handsome credit at the bank.

WATCH POINTERS.

How to Take Care of Your Time-piece.

"My watch had developed a most annoying irregularity," says a writer in the Chicago Times-Herald. "It lost and gained by turns until I conceived the disagreeable impression of having paid a first class price for a third class article. Full of resentment, I posted off to the dealer from whom the watch had been purchased and accused him of having treated me unfairly."

"He opened my timepiece and, having examined its internal economy very closely, remarked, 'It's simply a case of unconscious cruelty to a faithful but sensitive friend.'"

"Take, for instance, the simple process of winding a watch. There is a right and a wrong way of doing it. Whether it be by key or a stem, it should be wound in the morning. Turn slowly and avoid all jerky movements. The watch will then work best during the day, as the spring will exert its strongest traction power, whereby the external jostling inflicted on the watch by your daily works and walks are fairly counterbalanced. When a watch is wound at night, it has only the weakened spring to offer as resistance to the jerks and jolts of the daytime. The morning winding also lessens the danger of breaking the mainspring, which, being no longer at full tension at night, can stand the cold better."

"All watches keep better time as the result of regular habits. Don't lay it down one night and hang it up the next. Keep it in the same position as nearly as circumstances will permit. In second class watches the rate difference between the horizontal and vertical position is often quite significant. Nor should you hang your watch on a nail where it can swing to and fro like a pendulum. It will either gain or lose a great deal while in that position."

"The difference in temperature between your breast or a man's waistcoat pocket and a wall that may be nearly at the freezing point is about 77 to 83 degrees F., and a watch should therefore never be suspended or laid against a cold surface."

How to Stand Properly.

"I read much," says a middle aged woman, whose erect, graceful carriage, by the way, is noticeable, "of this, that and the other thing that should be done in order to stand properly and improve the figure, but I never pay any attention to any of the suggestions. I have never done but one thing in this matter, and that is to follow the advice given to me when I was a girl of sixteen by my grandmother, whose stately mien was the admiration of all her friends and which I could not hope to better or even achieve. All that is needed, she used to tell me, in order to stand well is to keep the legs straight. Notice yourself a half dozen times during the day and you will see how useful is this advice. Constantly the knees are too much bent. The figure sags in consequence, and its lines of elegance are lost. Straighten the knees every time you think of it, and the rest of the figure falls naturally in the proper position."

How to Clean a Clock.

One of my clocks began to give jerky ticks and then refused to go altogether, says a writer in Good House-keeping. I placed a cloth saturated with kerosene in the bottom of the clock, and the fumes arising loosened the dirt, oil and grit from the works, precipitating them to the bottom. I used a clean white bit of old muslin, so when the dirt began to drop I knew it by the dirty color of the rag. I removed it and in a day or two placed another saturated rag in the bottom of the clock. The fumes this time, as the dirt had all dropped, lubricated the works, and my clock has ticked along right merrily ever since.

How to Remove Vaseline Stains.

Vaseline stains seem quite hopeless, but they may be removed. Place two thicknesses of blotting paper on the ironing board, and over them place the material with the spot saturated with benzine. Cover this with two more pieces of blotting paper and press with a moderately hot iron. The process may need to be repeated, but success is inevitable. Benzine must be handled carefully and away from the fire, as it is highly inflammable.

How to Make Rhubarb Lemonade.

Peel and stew green rhubarb in plenty of water to cover, adding a very little sugar and lemon juice. When the rhubarb is tender, strain off the sirup, and when cold it is ready for use. A few large raisins cooked with the rhubarb will improve the flavor. The pulp may be used with addition of little more lemon juice, gelatin and juice of stewed prunes to make a jelly mold with the whole prunes.

How to Iron Silk.

Silk or pongee should be allowed to dry thoroughly before ironing, and great judgment must be exercised in order not to scorch the garment. If ironed while wet, silk becomes hard and stiff and loses its luster. For any corded material or any raised pattern the thicker the padding of the ironing board the better the result.

How to Make Glace Fruits.

To make glace fruits boil some sugar until it assumes a yellow color and breaks off short and crisp when a piece is dropped in the water. Remove the pan from the fire and drop the orange sections or grapes one at a time into it and remove with two forks. Place on an oiled slab to dry.

How to Remove Mildew.

Chloride of lime, about a couple of table-spoonsful, in a basin of water is an excellent thing to remove mildew from muslin to linen. Leave the article in about fifteen minutes.

Walter Burgess, Hardman, Or., nine years old, knows how to use a pocket-knife. In this picture, reproduced from The American Boy, are shown a windmill, a pump and tower and a battleship which he has whittled out of wood. He must be a patriotic little fellow, for see the American flag!

VALEDICTORY.

Delivered by Carrie Mae Wight at Gould's Academy Commencement Exercises.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1902 are now drawing to a close. For four years we have been preparing for and looking forward to this day; but as the time when we must sever our connection with Gould's Academy has drawn near, a feeling of sadness has mingled with our long anticipated pleasure. And now, while there is pride and pleasure in our hearts that we have completed our work, yet in the blending of our joy and sorrow at this hour, I dare say the feeling of sorrow predominates in every heart.

As we have listened to the various class parts, they have brought to our minds pleasant memories of the past, and although we fain would linger, it devolves upon me, in behalf of the class of 1902, to bid farewell to our beloved school, under whose influence we have spent four very happy years—years not merely of intellectual advancement, but years of continuous growth in character and experience.

Dear friends, your presence at this hour is indicative of the interest and good-will which you have always manifested for us, individually, as a class, and as a school; for this interest together with the wishes of Godspeed which you so plainly express, we thank you heartily.

Kind and thoughtful trustees:—The considerate care and wise judgment which you have used in the management of Gould's Academy are proof of the debt of gratitude we owe to you. Very seldom, we think, do the students of an institution such as ours realize or appreciate the work of its trustees. Through your efforts we have been able to receive the advantages afforded by Gould's Academy, which, during the past few years has become one of the best preparatory schools in our State. To whom is due the credit for this? We believe in a measure to the trustees, and, believing this we extend to you our deep appreciation and gratitude. We hope that, in years to come, you may see your efforts even more fully rewarded, and thus be inspired to labor still more zealously for the welfare of the school.

Dear faithful teachers:—The end for which you have been laboring with us and for us with such untiring zeal has come, and to you we must say good-by. We realize that we have put you to many trials, but with never-failing patience you have labored for our good. Many are the difficult places we have been helped over by your kindly advice and assistance; but the most important and lasting lessons we have learned from you are those which we have learned perhaps unconsciously; lessons of truth, justice, self-reliance, honesty, all those sterling qualities which are essential for the upbuilding of a noble, upright character. We have learned to know the pleasures of a school where the most friendly relations exist between teachers and students. We can show our appreciation and gratitude to you in no better way than in striving to make our lives and deeds show the lessons we have learned. You have won the respect and love of each one of us and when, in future years, you recall the days spent in Gould's Academy we hope that you may remember with pleasure and pride the class of 1902. Surely we shall cherish with thankful hearts this thought of having been your pupils. Nor would we forget those teachers who were with us during the previous years of our course and ever showed the same kindly interest in us which you have manifested. They, too, share our gratitude and best wishes.

Our dearly beloved Principal:—We shall cherish many tender memories of our relations to this school, but none will be more potent and lasting to us, than the memory of you. For four years we have found in you a faithful teacher, a wise counsellor, a true friend and we feel sure your interest in us will continue for years to come. Up the steep, rough path of knowledge, though we were often prone to falter, you have encouraged us onward, until to-day you see us go forth sadly grieved to part with our careful guide. For our education, our moral life, all that pertains to our present welfare, we are greatly indebted to you alone and for such we present to you the greatest gift we have to offer, our true respect, and lasting gratitude.

Schoolmates:—As we go forth into the great school of life, "among the many pictures that hang on memory's wall" stand out clearly the pictures of you. When you entered the school we greeted each other as strangers, but very soon we came to enjoy that friendship which exists only in the hearts of schoolday companions. To-day we sever our connection as schoolmates, but whenever or wherever it is our lot to meet in the future the pleasant associations of our schooldays will come to us anew. Dear classmates:—It is with feelings deeply touched, that I turn to you. For four years we have labored here together, but I feel sure that those struggles will prove to be stepping-stones in the long journey before us. Let us ever keep in mind the memory of our Academy life and let it urge us on to nobler attainments until we accomplish something worthy of our Alma Mater.

I think that we have been in the strictest sense of the word a united class and to-day that unity is felt more keenly than ever before. There may have been little differences but now they are all forgotten as we are gathered for the last time as students of Old Gould's. May the lessons we have learned, the habits we have acquired, the friendships we have formed, as we have labored here together, strengthen us against temptation and guide our footsteps in the paths of honor and success. May our lives be such as shall reflect honor upon Gould's Academy, and when we are graduated from life's school, may we again be united in that higher school in the life to come.

To the Sheriff of any County in our said State, or either of his Deputies, Greeting:

We command you to attach the goods or estate of Fred W. Henderson and Agnes M. Henderson both of Newry in said County of Oxford, to the value of five hundred dollars; and summon the said defendants (if they may be found in your precinct) to appear before our Justices of our Supreme Judicial Court next to be holden at Paris, within and for said County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of March, A. D. 1902, then and there in our said Court to answer unto Mary J. Bartlett of Greenwood in said county, in a plea of debt. For that the said Plaintiff, by the consideration of our Justice of our Supreme Judicial Court, holden at Paris, within and for the County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of February, A. D. 1900, rendered judgment against the said Fred W. and Agnes M. Henderson, the Defendants for the sum of two hundred fifty-nine dollars and ten cents, debt or damages and sixteen dollars and fifty cents costs of the same suit, as by record thereof remaining in said court appears. Which said judgment is in full force, and not reversed, annulled or satisfied, although one writ of execution has issued thereon, which said writ of execution, returned unto our said court, in no part satisfied, whereby an action hath accrued to the Plaintiff, to have and recover of the said Defendant, the said several sums amounting in the whole to two hundred seventy-five dollars and sixty cents, together with legal interest on the last named sum from the rendition of judgment and together with fifteen cents more for the writ of execution aforesaid. Yet the said Defendants, though often requested, have not paid the same, but neglect and refuse so to do, to the damage of the Plaintiff (as he says) the sum of five hundred dollars, which shall then and there be made to appear, with other due damages; and whereas the said Plaintiff says that the said Defendants have not in their own hands and possession, goods and estate to the value of five hundred dollars, aforesaid, which can come to be attached, but have entrusted to and deposited in the hands and possession of Charles H. Davis of Bethel in said county, Trustee of the said Defendants' goods, effects and credits to the value of five hundred dollars, we command you, therefore, that you summon the said Trustee (if he may be found in your precinct) to appear before our Justices of said Court, to be holden as aforesaid, to show cause, if any he have, why execution to be issued upon such judgment as the Plaintiff may recover against the said Defendants in this action (if any) should not issue against their goods, effects or credits in the hands and possession of him, the said Trustee; and have you there this writ with you doing therein.
